Leading Motorists Rights Advocate Running For Los Angeles City Council

Jay Beeber, the person who got rid of the red light camera program in Los Angeles and who has just been successful in getting Caltrans to change the signal timing protocols throughout the state to give more yellow time at traffic signals, is now running for City Council in L.A. The election is on March 3rd.

Why should you care if you don't live there? The answer is simple. As a sitting Councilmember of the second largest city in the country, Jay will have a lot more influence when it comes to the issues we all care about, not just in his local area, but throughout the state and the country.

Jay has already been extremely successful going up against the red light camera industry and getting huge changes made at the state level. Each year he works for free to protect our rights by stopping bad legislation and helping to pass good legislation. This past year he stopped four bills that would have taken away some of our rights and would have imposed greater costs and penalties on our community.

Jay has literally saved the motoring community millions of dollars through his efforts. Just think how much more Jay will be able to do if he is elected.

However, Jay needs our help to reach his fund raising target by December 31st so he can get his message out to voters and win the election. Please consider helping Jay out with a donation <http://jay4la.com/contribute/>. No amount is too small and every dollar gets him closer to the finish line.

Please feel free to share this message with your contacts.

Jay Beeber is the community advocate who got rid of the red light cameras in Los Angeles. He is also leading the reform of LA's abusive parking policies and has been effective in helping improve neighborhood services and increase safety. Now Jay Beeber is running for City Council, District 4. www.Jay4LA.com
